

Hook:

I'm about to teach you how to go from complete beginner to making at least $5,000 per month as a UGC creator with the paid-to-post method.

This is without risking upfront, needing an existing foundation, or sacrificing your freedom.

Everything that you're going to learn throughout the next few minutes of this free recorded training could genuinely change the trajectory of your entire life.

I'm only saying that because it's literally taken me from being homeless to purchasing my dream car in the span of just six months.

I've tried my very best to keep this as simple and concise as possible so that you're no longer in the dark by the end of it.

Super Hook:

Let me just give you some context real quick about my backstory, my lifestyle, and everything in between, in case you're new here.

It was only six months ago that I was sleeping on my friend's floor, drilling wells for minimum wage, and sitting in a bunch of debt.

I took the biggest risk of my whole life and invested around $4,000 into a mentorship that taught me how to stop chasing random side hustles and start getting paid to post.

The bad news is that my friends and family all thought that I had lost my mind.

The good news is that I was able to prove them all wrong by making $4,800 in my very first month.

I'm now making over $20,000 per month and helping others replace their full-time jobs immediately.

I've even had students of mine like Malachi surpass me and make $5,600 in month one.

My point is that there are so many other complete beginners that have managed to make money online as well.

Lead:

The reason that this approach makes so much sense will be extremely relatable for anybody else who's ever drilled wells.

It teaches you something about life that nobody ever talks about otherwise.

There are essentially two strategies when it comes to drilling wells.

The first is picking a certain spot and betting on there being water underneath it.

You have to take on risk by committing to that, you need a ton of equipment in order to find out whether or not you're right, and you have to really exert yourself for the reward.

The thing is that, despite how noble a pursuit this is, it could all be for nothing.

The second is connecting to a supply of water that's already running.

You don't have to take on risk, you don't need a ton of equipment, and you don't have to exert yourself.

The thing is that, even though this isn't some grandiose act, it's actually going to work out.

Making money online as a complete beginner is very similar in that sense.

Most people try to get fancy with it and bet on a certain spot even though there are already so many running water supplies.

You need to realize that you're allowed to take advantage of the available opportunities instead of starting from scratch.

Problem:

Let me explain what I'm referring to in that analogy with the first strategy.

It's chasing random side hustles.

You dive head first into the hot new trend and blame yourself for it not working out.

This leaves you right back where you had started in the beginning.

The only difference is that every single time you end up experiencing a little more doubt and a little less faith.

There are three reasons why this approach is such a problem.

The first is that you have to risk upfront, which can be time, energy, or attention, but it's usually capital.

This means that you don't have trial and error on your side, so the odds are actually stacked against you.

You never want the approach that you take to require any equipment, subscriptions, or suppliers.

The second is that you need an existing foundation, like a skill, an audience, or a product, for example.

This means that you end up being wiped out before ever getting a chance, seeing as you're trying to unlock a door with a key that you simply don't have.

You never want the approach that you take to prevent starting with a blank slate from working in your favor.

The third is that it makes you sacrifice your freedom, whether that's time, location, or finances.

This means that you become a glorified slave to the whole thing, which defeats the purpose of doing this in the first place.

You never want the approach that you take to be unaccommodating.

These three reasons are what keep you stuck on the same old hamster wheel of trying to make money online as a complete beginner.

You can think of this like picking a random spot with no promise that there was ever any water down there to begin with.

Solution:

Let me explain what I'm referring to in that analogy with the second strategy.

It's something that I've named "the paid-to-post method."

There are an insane amount of business owners out there whose entire livelihood revolves around videos that other people are posting for them.

One of the most successful ways for them to do this is through UGC creators, or people who create user-generated content.

This is basically just somebody who posts videos on behalf of brands in order to attract customers for them by framing themselves as one of their existing customers.

Brands are allocating serious budgets for UGC creators who can generate attention for them on social media.

They want as many of them as they can possibly get their hands on because it has a direct correlation to the sales of their products.

There are three reasons why this is the solution.

The first is that it only needs the phone in your pocket, as well as maybe a tripod or ringlight.

This means that there's nothing to lose when you're not taking some sort of gamble.

You always want the approach that you take to give you the most output for the least input.

The second is that it's extremely beginner friendly in the sense that starting from scratch works in your favour this time with nothing to unlearn.

This means that going all in actually becomes a rational move instead of something that your friends and family think you've lost your mind over.

You always want the approach that you take's effort and sacrifice to be nothing in comparison to the returns on the other side.

The third is that it gives you back your freedom in the form of time, location, and finances.

This means that it actually adds to your life instead of draining from it.

You always want the approach that you take to be backed by cold hard evidence.

These three reasons are what make getting paid to post the most sensible approach for making money online as a complete beginner.

You can think of this like connecting to a running water supply, so that you already know for sure that there's going to be water there.

Training:

You're probably wondering how this actually works, and it can be boiled down into three pillars.

The first is setting yourself up for success in this current landscape.

It comes down to framing yourself in a way that shows brands how valuable you are to them.

You want to be positioned as a professional who's mastered their craft and not an influencer trying to make a quick buck.

You're entering into a partnership in which you're using a skill that you've developed in order to provide a highly valuable service to wealthy business owners.

One of my students got started with a blank slate and made $2,400 in their first week because they had no bad habits to unlearn.

The second is landing retainer and commission deals with brands at your command.

All you're doing is reaching out to brands and having them come to you with the offer of producing videos.

You never want to rely on deals falling into your lap, because it makes your income out of your control.

This is why you need to ditch one-time deals then double down on retainers and commissions.

Gannon is landing deals with huge brands that pay him a base for his work and an uncapped ceiling on the sales that he drives.

The third is consistently and predictably producing videos with viral potential.

Most people's results feel random and unrepeatable because they're convinced that it's just luck.

The viral potential of the videos that you produce has nothing to do with rolling the dice, because it stems from a process.

You're putting existing formats, concepts, and frameworks that are proven to work into use.

My students are experiencing this firsthand, with brands raising their retainers as their batches kept getting stronger than the last.

You've basically got everything that you need to make money online as a complete beginner with this approach once you've got those three pillars working together.

Offer:

I'm just going to be straightforward with you here and say that this isn't all sunshine and rainbows.

It can actually be quite a long-winded and difficult process to begin seeing success with when you're not doing it alongside others.

I spent the longest time chasing random side hustles until I eventually started getting paid to post, and even then it was a struggle to get right, because I was trying to do it on my own.

I've been working on something that will prevent you from having to do the exact same thing.

I'm talking about 'The Kickstarter.'

This is where I work directly with you to take you from complete beginner to making at least $5,000 per month as a UGC creator with the paid-to-post method.

You have your hand held throughout it all with one-on-one coaching calls.

You get to take advantage of my knowhow through one-on-one access to me.

You can learn absolutely everything via comprehensive course content.

You secure concepts explained and questions answered on the group coaching calls.

You become part of a community of others doing the exact same thing.

Those are just the main deliverables without even mentioning any of the bonuses as well.

The Magnetic Portfolio Template, which I've literally used to get contracts over the line.

The Winning Video Swipe File, which is just a bank of ready-to-go hits.

The Virality Formula, which is basically a checklist of what goes into it all.

The Batching Protocol, which is actually my system for producing videos.

The Mindset Mastery Manual, which is almost like beating the final boss.

I've also taken the weight off of your shoulders with my guarantee of working with you free of charge if you haven't got it working by the end of our timeframe.

This means that you're covered right up until the point where it doesn't even matter.

The only real way to lose here is by never taking a strike at winning.

I do need to be real with you about something though.

I'm only accepting students in cohorts of ten that stay open for the span of just three days.

This means that it's really in your best interest to take action as soon as possible.

I want you to also be aware of the fact that there is going to be an investment associated with it.

All I'm going to say is that I've seen others charging way more for way less, so you're getting out a multitude of what you're putting in.

It sits somewhere in the mid four figures, just to give you some peace of mind.

Call-to-action:

The next steps are quite short and sweet if I've piqued your interest whatsoever.

All you have to do is click the button right below this free recorded training on the landing page in order to fill out an application form.

It will help me determine whether or not you're a good fit for 'The Kickstarter' so that nobody's time, energy, or attention is wasted.

It will allow you to schedule a discovery call with me for a time that suits you if you do turn out to be a good fit for this.

We will just use that to map all of this onto your situation and come up with a game plan.

Close:

Anyways that pretty much sums everything up.

You know that digging your own well, or chasing random side hustles, means risking upfront, needing an existing foundation, and sacrificing your freedom.

You know that connecting to a running water supply, or getting paid to post, needs the phone in your pocket, is extremely beginner friendly, and gives you back your freedom.

You've seen other complete beginners just like yourself making money online with this exact approach.

Nobody is going to take that first step other than yourself.

With that being said, I really do appreciate you watching all the way until the end of this free recorded training, and I hope you have a great rest of your day.

Cheers.